Executive Director, Lifespan Development

Brain technology, Coach,

The essence of my work involves “opening the door to emergence” for individual clients and groups to reach personal and professional fulfillment by accessing their own inner guidance systems, assisted by brainwave analysis, biofeedback, and integral coaching.

Using EEG spectrum analysis and biofeedback, one can quite literally begin to see the inner workings of the conscious mind! Specifically, using a tool called the BrainMirror (developed by Brain Master Technologies) my clients can monitor a scientifically-based exterior representation of the interior process of their brain! Through the ability to receive instantaneous feedback as to shifts in their brainwave patterns, as well as through different relaxation and visualization techniques, individuals can gain a profound sense of inner awareness and increased capacity.

Besides my work with individual clients, working with groups is one of my great joys, particularly teaching and group exploration of the intriguing links between neuroscience and levels of consciousness, as well as our capacity for expanded social, spiritual and ecological intelligence. I have been asked to make presentations at the prestigious Whole Health Conference, the Whole Systems Change Summit, and by personal request from Ken Wilber to the Integral Institute staff. Also, having studied with each of the four Presence authors (Senge, Scharmer, Jaworski and Flowers), I have integrated the Brain Mirror process with Theory U and developed a seven step process for expanding self-directed neuroplasticity through moving down and back up the “U”!
